

Frankwell Jyh-Ming Lin, President of Andes Technology Corporation co-founded the company in 2005 and became company president in 2006. Before Andes, he led ASIC business development, ASIC implementation, chip back-end services, IP business development, and industry relations development at Faraday Technology Corp. Before Faraday, he held positions in engineering, product planning, sales, and marketing with various product lines at United Microelectronics Corp. (UMC). Frankwell received his BSEE degree in Electrophysics from the National Chiao-Tung University, Taiwan and his MSEE degree of Electrical and Computer Engineering from Portland State University in Oregon. Under his management, Andes has been recognized as one of the leading suppliers of embedded CPU IP in the semiconductor industry. In 2012 the company won the EE Times worldwide Silicon 60 Hot Startups to Watch and in 2015 the Deloitte Technology Fast 500 Asia Pacific award.